

Accepted Methods of Payment

INVOICES

Payment options:

1. Cheque or international money order/draft payable in US funds and made out to:
The Journal of Rheumatology
2. Wire transfer (see conditions below)
3. VISA or MasterCard (see conditions below)
4. Online through a secure portal with Visa or MasterCard: https://www.jrheum.com/pay_invoice

VISA/MASTERCARD

There are 2 options for paying by Visa/MasterCard. We do not accept American Express.

1. Supply your credit card information securely to The Journal of Rheumatology accounting department, which will process the transaction. Information provided must include the card expiry date and CVV number.
2. Pay directly through our secure online portal: https://www.jrheum.com/pay_invoice

WIRE TRANSFERS

Due to extensive bank charges, we do not encourage wire transfers. All payments made by wire transfer are subject to additional charges:

1. Customer bank fees
All fees, including any intermediary fees charged by the customer's bank, must be paid by the customer. These fees cannot be deducted from the total payment owing to The Journal of Rheumatology.
2. The Journal of Rheumatology processing fee
Please add US$50 to the amount owing The Journal of Rheumatology to cover our bank charges.

Banking information will be provided to the customer only upon agreement of all additional wire transfer fees.

BANK AND TAX FORMS

- The Journal of Rheumatology is not required to have an IBAN number (International Bank Account Number).
- The Journal of Rheumatology is a Canadian-based, owned, and operated company and is therefore not required to complete and provide the W9 forms. However, we can provide the W-BEN-E form on request.